Former Scoutmaster admits charges

A Chillicothe, Mo., man entered guilty pleas Tuesday to five sexual abuse charges involving Boy Scouts. The pleas came during a hearing Tuesday afternoon before Buchanan County Circuit Judge Gary Fenner.

A pre-sentence investigation was then ordered for James E. Ogan, 36. He remains free on bond.

Ogan was accused of sexually abusing five Livingston County, Mo., between midnight and 2:30 a.m. on June 27 at Boy Scout Camp Geiger, located northwest of St. Joseph in Andrew County, Mo.

At the time of the offenses, Ogan was the assistant Scoutmaster of the Chillicothe troop to which the boys belonged. He also was assistant chief of police in Chillicothe.

Ogan entered guilty pleas to two charges of second-degree sexual abuse and three charges of attempted sexual abuse, all misdemeanor offenses.

The abuse charges could result in a term of one day to one year in the county jail on each offense. Ogan also could be fined up to $1,000 or face both a fine and jail term on each charge.

On the attempted abuse charges, Ogan could receive up to 15 days in the county jail and/or a fine of up to $300, or both, on each of the offenses.

The maximum sentence that could be rendered by the court for all of the offenses would be two years and 45 days in confinement.

When Judge Fenner asked Ogan if he was taking any medication at the time, the Chillicothe man advised that he was taking a drug for depression. However, Ogan said he was not suffering mental illness and, although under a doctor's care, his mind was clear and he was fully aware of what was taking place in the court.

Ogan was charged with the offenses by Andrew County Prosecuting Attorney Ron Holliday.

Four of the boys were 13 years of age at the time of the incident. The other boy was 12 years old. Several of the boys and their parents were present in the courtroom.

molester sentenced

James E. Ogan, a former Boy Scout leader and police official in Chillicothe, Mo., received the maximum sentence Wednesday afternoon on charges of sexually abusing five Boy Scouts.

Ogan was sentenced to a term of two years and 45 days in the Buchanan County Jail by Circuit Judge Gary Fenner.

He received one-year terms on two charges of second-degree sexual abuse and 15 days each on three charges of attempted sexual abuse, to run consecutively.

The charges against Ogan were filed by Andrew County Prosecuting Attorney Ron Holliday after the Scout leader molested the five boys in their tents the night of June 27, 1983, at Camp Geiger in Andrew County. It was alleged Ogan came to the boys' tents on the pretext of discussing their induction into an honorary organization and then touched each of them in the area of their undershorts.

Four of the boys were 13 years old at the time of the incident and one was 12. The youths and their families were seated in the courtroom as the sentencing was levied.

Judge Fenner said he had given much thought to the case. "I kept coming back to the fact that you (Ogan) placed yourself in a position of special trust to the victims. You did consciously take advantage of that trust. By your actions, you have undermined that trust."

"In light of your position, as a Scout leader and your position in the community, it was most difficult for these children to come forward against you. To this I might add, this situation was in no way the boys' fault. It was yours alone," he said.

At the start of the session, Holliday called the victims "young, impressionable and defenseless against a man who was powerful in their eyes."

Holliday said the young victims' lives have been affected by the occurrence. "They have been ridiculed by their peers and embarrassed in school and church. They already have had months of suffering, wondering if they would be believed. Therefore, this case cries out for justice and the state recommends the full two years and 45 days punishment," Fenner said.

The defense attorney argued that Ogan had confessed to the crimes, and admitted that he had a problem. "You have to recognize that this man has dropped from a pinnacle of power and now is viewed as something that crawled from under the rug," he said.

The attorney asked the court to "look beyond the political hysteria of today, to be lenient in this case."

Dear Parvin:

We received a call from you on June 29, concerning an individual by the name of James Ogan. He was registered as a Assistant Scoutmaster in Troop 120 of Chillicothe, Missouri.

We have heard nothing from you since that time. We wondered if we should establish a confidential case at this point and if you could supply us with more information.

Has this individual been arrested and indicted? Has there been a trial? If so, has sentencing taken place?

We would also like for you to complete the confidential record sheet which we have enclosed with this letter. This will enable us to identify Mr. Ogan, should he try to register in some other area of the country.

Please give us as detailed information as possible with statements from individuals if available. Newspaper clippings are also most helpful.

Scout leader held in sex abuse cases

By KEN ROSENAUER
Gazette Correspondent

SAVANNAH, Mo. — The assistant police chief at Chillicothe, Mo., was arrested Thursday evening on charges of sexually molesting five Boy Scouts.

James E. Ogan, 36, an assistant Scoutmaster of the Chillicothe troop of which the boys are members, allegedly committed the acts between midnight and 2:30 a.m. Monday at Camp Geiger, northwest of St. Joseph.

The Scouts had arrived there Sunday afternoon for a week-long camp.

The boys, four 13 years old and one 12 years old, reported the incident to another assistant Scoutmaster who turned the matter over to Scoutmaster Vince Moore of Chillicothe.

Moore then contacted the boys' parents and Livingston County Prosecuting Attorney Brent Elliott, who investigated the case with Andrew County Prosecuting Attorney Ron Holliday.

Holliday spent Thursday interviewing the boys and their parents. He described the alleged acts as "inappropriate fondling."

Charges of five counts of sexual abuse in the second degree were filed late Thursday afternoon before Associate Circuit Judge Edwin Smith, who issued a warrant for Ogan's arrest. Bond was set at $15,000.

Ogan was taken into custody by Livingston County Sheriff Leland O'Dell. He was assisted by Andrew County Sheriff Gary Howard.

Ogan, who is single, has been suspended from the police force pending the outcome of the trial, which has been set for Aug. 31.

Dear Mr. Ogan:

After careful review, we have decided that your registration with the Boy Scouts of America should be suspended. We are therefore compelled to request that you sever any relations that you may have with the Boy Scouts of America.

Trial date set in scout case

A November trial date has been scheduled for a Chillicothe, Mo., man who is accused of the alleged sexual abuse of five Livingston County Boy Scouts in late June at Camp Geiger, northwest of the city in Andrew County, Mo.

James E. Ogan, 38, is to appear here for trial at 9 a.m. on Nov. 9, according to Buchanan County Circuit Judge Gary Fenner.

Ogan was charged by Andrew County Prosecuting Attorney Ron Holliday with second-degree sexual abuse. He allegedly committed the acts between midnight and 2:30 a.m. on June 27 at the Boy Scout camp. He was the assistant Scoutmaster of the Chillicothe troop of which the boys belonged.

Four of the boys were 13 years of age at the time of the alleged incident. The other boy allegedly abused was 12.

The boys reported the alleged incident to another assistant Scoutmaster. Following an intensive investigation, Ogan was arrested June 30 on the charges.

At the time, Ogan also was assistant chief of police at Chillicothe. After the charges were filed he was suspended. However, the 11-year law enforcement veteran then submitted his resignation to the Chillicothe City Council.

In late July Judge Edwin Smith granted a change of venue in the case from Andrew County to Buchanan County. Ogan is free on a $15,000 bond.
